

The Department of Public Economics at the
Max Planck Institute for Tax Law and Public Finance
in Munich, Germany,

invites you to apply for admission to the

PhD Program in Public Economics

Talented and successful applicants

- are interested in research on international fiscal competition and/or on the political economy of taxation and redistribution.
- join an international research team with a clear focus on public economics (working language: English).
- participate in the Ph.D. course program at the Munich Graduate School of Economics (MGSE).
- get extensive training in an interdisciplinary research environment in public economics and tax law with excellent research facilities in the heart of Europe.
- receive support in form of funds for living expenses, research visits and international event attendance as well as in terms of guidance by experienced senior scientists for up to four years.
- have excellent career prospects upon completion of their doctorate.

Application period: Dec 15, 2017 - Mar 31, 2018

Start of 3-year program: Oct 1, 2018

Online application at: <http://www.mgse.econ.uni-muenchen.de/application/index.html>

Department information at: http://www.tax.mpg.de/en/public_economics.html

Department contact:

Prof. Dr. Kai A. Konrad, info.econ@tax.mpg.de

Max Planck Institute for Tax Law and Public Finance

Marshallplatz 1, 80539 Munich, Germany

Phone: + 49-89-24246-5250, Fax: + 49-89-24246-5299